Kameron was raised in Lafayette, Louisiana and is a proud graduate of Lafayette High School. After earning his Bachelor of Liberal Arts degree in Political Science from Tulane University in 2013, Kameron spent two years serving in the Phoenix Corps of Teach for America and another year working as a legal assistant at Judice & Adley law firm in Lafayette. These early experiences were formative in his decision to become an attorney.

Enrolling at LSU's Paul M. Hebert Law Center in 2016, Kameron was chosen to serve as a legal intern for Louisiana Sea Grant – a division of the federal environmental program governed by NOAA. His work involved researching legal issues surrounding the preservation and restoration of Louisiana's coast, as well as educating the public on environmental issues facing Louisiana's wetlands and coastal communities. Kameron also served as a student attorney for LSU's Immigration Law Clinic and participated in LSU Law's study abroad program at Jean Moulin University Lyon III in France.

After graduating from LSU Law and passing the Louisiana Bar Exam, Kameron spent six years practicing in the areas of succession/probate and estate planning, an important service to Louisiana families in need of guidance during particularly difficult times. He is licensed to practice in all state courts in Louisiana and a member of the Louisiana Bar Association.
